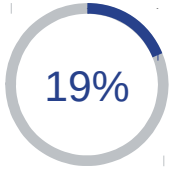
We'll focus on three major topics.

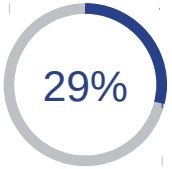
SOME SCARY NUMBERS

Expectations are high.

The bar is low.
Although cloud projects are not living up to the hype, the market does not want to have this conversation

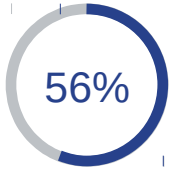


An “utter failure”

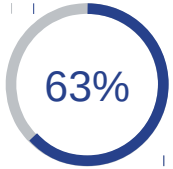


Successful

Under resourced



On budget



On time

Sources: Raven Intel, InfoWeek, G2 Crowd

Thriving in the cloud is more difficult than expected.

Constant change	Few/poor SLAs	Self-education	Partner complexity	Transformation
Geographic complexity	Unrealistic ubiquity	Low stability	Human scarcity	Community lobbying

It all comes down to ~~requirements~~ chemistry.
